Railroads Want Two Years for Rebuilding

SCHEME IS NOT FAVORABLY ENTERTAINED

Sixteenth Street Viaduct.

Railrond Companies Desire to Patch Up the Old Tumble-Down Structure-City Engineer Advises City to Stand on Its Rights,

It developed at yesterday afternoon's city council committee of the whole meeting that all the delay on the part of the Burlington and Union Pacific railroads in connection with the Sixteenth street viaduct matter has been made for a purpose and that purpose is to bring about a postponement of the construction of the new viaduct for at least two years. This avowed scheme of the railroads, however, did not meet with a favorable reception at the hands of the council; on the other hand the city fathers laid a few plans with the object of balking it.

In the first place, City Engineer Rose water was instructed to report to the council-at tonight's meeting, if possible, and at the Millard. at least by next Tuesday night-the modified plans of the new structure as agreed to by the railroads, verbally. These plans will be adopted and the railroads will be ordered to at once commence the construction of a new viaduct. Meantime the present structure is to be torn down, and if the railroads do not start work as ordered, mandamus proceedings will be commenced against them in the courts, City Attorney Connell advised this plan of campaign.

The matter was brought up by City En-gineer Rosewater, who wanted to know what the city council proposed to do, now that the vinduct has been closed. He wished to know whether he was to be ordered to tear down the structure; if so, how the work should be done. President Bingham of the council made the only objection to the work of destruction. He declared that the new viaduct would not be built any sooner if the old one is torn down now, because the material cannot be secured. It would simply mean that Sixteenth street would be closed a year and no work whatever would be done during six months of this time. "I want to say something on that," interrupted City Engineer Rosewater. "I have recently seen Judge Baldwin of the Union Pacific. From his conversation I infer that the railroads are preparing to make a suggestion that they be permitted to so repair the present viaduct that it can be used a couple of years longer. By this continual patching up the city will not get a viaduct for years. I have other evidence that the roads intend to delay matters. Two weeks ago the representatives and myself and a number of other city officials agreed verbally to a set of plans for a new structure | Chicago. and to build as soon as possible. A copy was furnished the railroads with the understanding that they would sign in a few days. When these few days elapsed I sent a man three times for the written agree ment, but failed to get it. On his last trip the man saw President Burt and asked him what report he should make on his return. President Burt said: 'Simply tell them that we cannot sign at the present time.'

The horse galloped swiftly along the thoroughfare and there was a general scramble on the part of people on the sidewalk and the drivers of other vehicles to get out of the way. The wagon behind the running horse swung from one side of the road to the other, smashing into some buggies and narrowly missing others. At Cass street a livery carriage was run into and badly broken. At

Defective Features of Present Jury Law Become Apparent.

OFFICIALS LABOR UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Judge Baker Condemns the System and Points Out the Changes that Should Be Made by the Legislature.

The drawing of a woman as a district court juror brought down the anathemas of the court and sheriff upon the present system of making up juries. L. C. Babbitt of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Lewis of Lincoln Union precinct is the woman whose name got into the panel. As the list is made up by the county commissioners from the poll books it is supposed that she voted at some school election. She did not offer to answer the summons and take her place in the jury box, but sent her brother to inform the court that "L. C. Babbitt is a woman and although a voter at the school election s not properly speaking an elector."

Under the present system of drawing jurors the county commissioners sometimes summon parties who have been dead six months, have left the state or have moved to the opposite side of the county. As a re sult it takes the sheriff a week sometime to locate a single juror. Then the quality of the material secured is not satisfactory, it is said, because the men who are needed on juries are usually engaged in attending to heir own business or else are employed in looking after that of some one else. Men who are out of work are usually anxious to serve. In calling the second panel of this term of court it was found that only eighty men had responded. The remainder of the 150 summoned did not even come into court. Of the eighty who answered twenty-six were excused, so that of the present panel fiftyfour men are available at present.

Judge Baker said he does not admire the present way of securing jurors because it is commission," continued the judge, "and in-The tend to do what I can to secure one. cost to the county would not be half what the expense entailed by the response of has left for a week's trip through the state. stance, if five commissioners were named to sioner would be expected to furnish a certheir prospects If unsatisfactory jurors placed there. were called the clerk could look up the lists furnished by the commissioners and the offending representative could be moved. Symptoms-

If in reading you have to stop and rest or rub your eyes, it is a certain indica-tion that you need glasses. If the type blurs and runs together the eyes burn or ache; if there is a tendency to hold your book at arm's length, or very close to your face, your eyes should have at-tention at once. With some people severe headaches are the only symptoms of eye strain. Others can read or sew without tiring, but do not see distant objects well. Still others find by alternately covering each eye that they are doing nearly all of their work with one. I will be glad to make an examination of your eyes and tell you in just what condition I find them
